> I grew up in care, and as a young carer for my younger siblings, I know first-hand what it feels like to wonder if anyone believes in you. That experience didn't hold me back; it became my greatest motivation. I'm passionate about making sure every young person, no matter their background or circumstances, has someone in their corner pushing them to be the best version of themselves. Every child deserves to feel seen, every young person deserves to be heard, and every one of them has the potential to achieve something incredible; they just need the right support to get there.
